Sustainability Reporting business benefits

An EY study¹ concluded in 2014 that Sustainability Reporting has emerged as a common practice of 21st-century business and is considered main stream for any large to mid-sized organization. Business benefits like improved reputation, increased customer loyalty, cost savings and increased long term profitability, are linked to Sustainability Reporting. Recently the European Parliament adopted a directive on the disclosure of non-financial information for 'Public interest entities', with more than 500 employees.

As the number of stakeholders has been growing, the need for integration, efficiency, accuracy and consistency increases. Excel based data collection processes are error prone and complex to control and reporting both internally and externally without supporting tools is challenging.

GreenIntelli is a Sustainability Performance Management and Reporting software platform that enables organizations to manage their performance related to Sustainability. GreenIntelli supports organizations to DEFINE their KPIs, organizational structures and supporting master data, to DEPLOY it within their organizations, their partners and IT landscape, to REGISTER sustainability data via a centrally controlled data collection process and to REPORT and analyze their sustainability performance from multiple reporting perspectives and visualizations.
